The House Committee on Government Operations has been working for over a year on developing a statute which would serve as the basis for classification of national security information. This statute would be a substitute for E. O. 11652, which is presently the authority for classification of information. The Office of Management and Budget has sent the Committee's latest draft to us for comments. The draft bill is attached along with a summary I prepared to assist you in wading through the bill.

By June 6th may I please have your comments on the following points:

1. Are the procedures set forth in subsection (c)(4) feasible and workable, or would they be an impossible administrative burden?

2. Are the criteria for the classification of information (subsection (d)) sufficient to protect DDA information?

3. Do subsections (e)(8) and (e)(9) sufficiently protect DDA information from the general downgrading and declassification requirements of subsection (e)? What other problems are there with subsection (e)?

Because of the obvious interest of the Office of Security in this (over legislation, I have forwarded that office a separate copy of this draft bill for their comments.

Thank you
